It is impossible to determine algorithmically whether any program with some input will ever finish running.